

Date : 21th April 2020 (28th Day of Lockdown)

Think Thread : The Global Trade War

Views By : Mr. Chandrashekhar Chincholkar , Mr. Pradeep Andhare , Mr. Chandrashekhar Dixit, Mr. Ramesh Sangare , Mr. Sachin Polke , Mr. Shrikant Durge , Dr. Archana Nanoty

The Trade war and effect of Chinese Economy

China contributes 15% of Global GDP. The Trade will bring down the World GDP.

It's an open secret that China has extraordinary high ambition to overpower others but now countries all over barring very few with Communist and Socialistic leanings, have understood the game. China would have to face wrath for playing dirty always. It's nothing new! Time for Indians to strategize for making India greatest Manufacturing hub. These tricky times are indicative of Global intelligence failure in relation to Chinese designs. Very sad!

China is successful in taking industries where labour are available cheap. In India being democracy the will power of politicians and bureaucrats will be required to handle thing with iron fist then only these are possible Cooperation between states and Center is Key . But, it was said that this exactly will be the hurdle

Mr. Ramesh Sangare sir said that, Draconian suppressive governance in China in case of labor is their key strength, in every aspect of their industrial development, as against the democratic practices of India. In India, the most problematic part is politically ruled Unions in general, the political rivalry between Centre and State Govts., inadequate labour laws for both employees and employers and dwindling global markets, which are the deterrents in the process of solving these problems.

Strategies to face the situation

Our administrative skills will have to undergo huge change. Change is inevitable and those will not accept will perish.

Mr. Ramesh Sangare sir very clearly added that, Empathy, maturity, dexterity and courage to handle conflicting interests, toughness to decide and act on the part of all stakeholders will be required. It is easy to forecast gloom. The most changeable would survive, rigidity of any kind would be detrimental, it is nature's way of dealing. Homo sapience have always believed and found out the light at the end of the tunnel ! Lot more opportunities of doing something very different would emerge. Survival of fittest would be tested positively. The organizations which have decided not to sack people. And not only that those who had been selected and offered the jobs just before Corona affair in campus interviews would be taken in, immediately after real Green signal by rulers. Such companies would grow phenomenally.

In stead on only calculating the damages of different kinds, we should spend more of our energy on what and how Best we can survive and grow. Gloom is known to the people. People want to know the solutions, not demoralizing futuristic impacts. People know it. They ask now .. We know what is not going to happen .. What to do now. ?